

PEL Services wins Lister Hospital installation contract

PEL Services Ltd., one of the UK's foremost providers of commercial fire, security and communication systems, has been awarded the fire alarm installation contract for the Lister hospital, part of the East and North Hertfordshire NHS Trust.

A 620-bed district general hospital in Stevenage, the Lister provides a full range of medical and surgical specialties. Over the last four years, £150 million has been invested in to new wards, theatres and maternity, along with a much expanded emergency department, transforming the Lister in to the Trust's specialist centre for specialist emergency and inpatient care for East and North Hertfordshire, as well as parts of Bedfordshire.

As part of this investment and the Trust's ongoing maintenance programme, the fire detection system at the Lister is being upgraded by PEL Services throughout the Emergency Assessment Unit and a new system is being installed into the new Theatres and Endoscopy unit.

The new fire detection system is substantial in size, consisting of two sets of four loop panels with over 200 multi smoke detector heads and 53 call points. In addition, PEL is fitting 98 interfaces which are designed to shut down plant release controlled doors, control valves and other services.

PEL Services works with a number of NHS Trusts in the region, including Hertfordshire Partnership NHS Foundation Trust and West Hertfordshire Hospitals NHS Trust, providing a range of maintenance services for equipment such as fire alarms, smoke damper control equipment and emergency lighting.
